

Dana Campbell

Secretary – Women in Mining Northwestern Ontario

Dana Campbell is a Professional Geologist with over seven years of experience in Ontario's mineral exploration sector. She has worked in technical and leadership roles on exploration projects across the province, contributing to drill program supervision, database and geotechnical management, and Indigenous community engagement.

A graduate of Lakehead University, Dana holds an Honours Bachelor of Science and a Master of Science in Geology. Beyond her geoscience career, she co-owns a creative business that provides photography, graphic design, and website development services.

Dana is passionate about advancing gender equity, mentorship, and representation within the mining industry. She is dedicated to fostering inclusive, respectful work environments and supporting early-career geoscientists through collaboration and knowledge-sharing. Based in Northwestern Ontario, Dana is committed to helping strengthen the visibility and impact of Women in Mining across the region.
